

Shrewsbury Flower Show
Friday 11th & Saturday 12th August 2017

A Humanist Garden at Shrewsbury Flower Show

<https://shrewsburyflowershow.org.uk/>

The annual Shrewsbury Flower Show is the World's longest running independent Horticultural Show with over 30,000 visitors across 32 acres in Shrewsbury's idyllic riverside setting.

We are delighted to announce that this year one of the show gardens will have a humanist theme and is supported and sponsored by the Shropshire Humanist Group. The humanist show garden, which will also follow the required overall 2017 theme of "The Wild West", will be designed and created by prize-winning, horticulturalist and humanist, Carol Seager.

Throughout the two show days, local humanists will be at the garden to answer questions and hand out information to those that request it.

We hope you will come and meet us at the Flower show.

We also hope that you may be able to help us finance the show garden by making a donation (details below). We need to raise £2000 to cover costs.

We are also seeking Shropshire residents who might be able to lend a hand preparing the garden in the days leading up to the show – no horticultural expertise or green fingers are required!

If you are a West Midlands humanist organisation, we would be happy to include your details in our handouts.

For enquires or to offer help prior to or during the show contact me at chair@shropshire.humanist.org.uk

To make a donation for the Humanist Garden send a cheque made out to Shropshire Humanist Group to The Treasurer, Peter Cann, 107 The Mount, Shrewsbury, SY3 8PH.

Follow these links for more information about the Shropshire Humanist Group (<https://shropshirehumanist.wordpress.com/>) or British Humanist Association (<https://humanism.org.uk/>).

With best wishes and we hope to see you at the Flower Show,

Simon Nightingale
Chair, Shropshire Humanist Group